

The Fallon Company Announces Two Key Senior Hires in Boston HQ Location

April 13, 2021, Boston, MA – The Fallon Company, a privately held commercial real estate owner and developer of large-scale urban mixed-use environments, today announced the addition of two new senior hires, Ryan Coleman as Director of Government Relations and Michael Barelli as Managing Director of Development. Both Coleman and Barelli will work out of the company’s headquarters in Boston, Massachusetts.

Ryan Coleman joins The Fallon Company from the Executive Office of Massachusetts Governor Charlie Baker where he served in several roles since 2015, including as Chief Secretary to Governor Baker for the past three years. Coleman, a native of Massachusetts, will be responsible for directing and overseeing coordination with all levels of government, and will represent the Company on matters of government relations and public policy.

“We are thrilled to have Ryan, who brings more than a decade of experience in local, state and federal government relations, on our team,” said Michael Fallon, President of The Fallon Company. “Understanding the needs and priorities of the communities where we work and live is important, and that starts with our partners in government.”

Michael Barelli brings nearly 20 years of experience as a real estate development executive to the role of Managing Director of Development at The Fallon Company. Barelli was most recently a Vice President at New England Development where he was responsible for the company’s development projects in the City of Boston. Prior to coming to Boston in 2012, he worked in New York City for a number of private developers.

“Michael brings extensive experience in leading and collaborating with internal teams and outside consultants in the visioning, planning, and execution of large-scale urban projects,” said Michael Fallon. “He’s a great addition to the talent we have here at The Fallon Company.”
